U.S. Participates in Constantine Capital of Arab Culture

The U.S. Embassy in Algeria is pleased to participate in “Constantine Capital of Arab Culture” with “Taste of America” — a week of activities to share American culture with Algerians at the Zenith Theater in Constantine from March 24-28.

“Taste of America” includes a variety of performances and other cultural and educational activities and events that will help promote greater understanding between Algeria and the United States, encourage a greater appreciation of each other's traditions, history and customs, and celebrate the contributions of Arab-Americans in all aspects of American life.

The program includes:

- Lectures and a photo exhibit organized in partnership with the Arab American National Museum of Michigan;
- concerts and workshops by “Circular Time,” a jazz and blues band;
- an American Studies conference organized in partnership with the Oran-based Center of Maghreb Studies (CEMA), John Hopkins University’s professor Todd Shepard, the Arab American National Museum of Michigan, and the University of Constantine;
- educational activities organized by the embassy’s Information Resource Center (IRC);
- the “American Spaces Got Talent” final show in partnership with Algerian singer Hakim Salhi; and
- screening of American movies.

“Taste of America” highlights the U.S. Government's continued commitment to strengthening U.S.-Algerian cooperation, fostering dialogue, and promoting mutual understanding between our two peoples.
